

Use Case ID: UC-02

Use Case Name: Book Confidential Counseling Session

Primary Actor: Corporate Employee

Supporting Actor: Licensed Therapist

Goal: Book an available counseling session while keeping the employee's corporate identity hidden from the therapist.

Preconditions

- The Corporate Employee is authenticated in the counseling portal.
- The employee has a valid anonymized pseudo-ID.
- At least one licensed therapist has an available appointment slot.
- Required employee booking information is available without exposing corporate identity to the therapist.

Main Success Scenario

1. The Corporate Employee opens the counseling appointment scheduler.
2. The system retrieves available therapist appointment slots.
3. The system converts displayed appointment times to the employee's configured timezone.
4. The employee selects a preferred therapist and available appointment slot.
5. The system generates or retrieves the employee's anonymized pseudo-ID for therapist-facing records.
6. The system verifies that the selected slot is still available.
7. The system creates the confidential counseling appointment using the pseudo-ID.
8. The system confirms the booking to the employee.
9. The therapist's appointment view is updated with the appointment and pseudo-ID only.
10. The system records the booking for the employee's personal wellness history.
11. The use case ends successfully.

Alternate Flow – Selected Slot No Longer Available

1. The system determines that the selected appointment slot has been booked by another employee.
2. The system does not create the counseling appointment.
3. The system informs the Corporate Employee that the selected slot is no longer available.
4. The system displays other available slots.
5. The employee selects another slot and the flow resumes from the slot-selection step.
6. If the employee does not select another slot, the booking process is cancelled.

Postconditions

Success:

- The counseling appointment is stored successfully.
- The therapist can see the appointment through the anonymized pseudo-ID.
- Corporate email and employee ID are not exposed in therapist-facing booking information.
- The employee can view the booking in their personal wellness information.

Failure:

- No appointment is created for an unavailable slot.
- The employee receives an appropriate availability notification.
- No employee corporate identity is disclosed to the therapist.